Glendale Oral Histories Online. We all love to see old photos, but sometimes hearing the voices of the people in the photos really brings them to life. The second year of the Glendale History Online project is doing just that with a collection of oral histories available on the Arizona Memory Project.

To hear people reminisce and be able to read their words on transcripts, just go to www.glendaleaz.com/history, then select "Listening to Glendale's Past."

The project is an effort by six local organizations to share some of Glendale's history with not only local citizens, but the world. Glendale Community College, Glendale Arizona Historical Society, Glendale Public Library, Luke Air Force Base, Sahuaro Ranch Park Historic Area and Thunderbird School of Global Management have put together a collection of ordinary and extraordinary people who have made our city great.

Listening to Glendale's Past is funded, in part, through a grant from the Arizona State Library, Archives and Public Records Agency under the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA).

Labor Day Holiday Notice. City of Glendale offices and all three libraries will be closed on Monday, Sept. 6 in observance of Labor Day. All households' scheduled garbage and recycling collection will be shifted one day due to the holiday. Read more.

Election Results. For election results or information on the upcoming runoff election in the Ocotillo and Barrel districts, click here or call the Glendale City Clerk's Office at 623-930-2252 (press option #1).

Update on Potential Transit Strike. The potential strike over contract negotiations with one of the city of Phoenix transit service operators, Veolia, on its union collective bargaining agreements has been averted for now. Parties are continuing to negotiate with a new deadline of September 30. The city of Glendale will continue to monitor this situation and will inform the public regarding any potential impact to bus service.

The city of Phoenix Public Transit Department has created a Web page to keep you informed on the progress of negotiations. Click here to visit the page.

Glendale Police Museum. The Glendale Police Museum has reopened in a new location. Located in the lobby of the Glendale Police Department at 6835 N. 57th Drive, the museum features photographs and articles from 1910 to 1970. You can view police booking slips from 1940-1945 and see badges, uniforms and equipment used by Glendale Police officers for the past century. Museum hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free. For more information, contact Dan Kallberg, Glendale Police Museum Historian at 623-930-3486.

Revised Policy for New Utility Account Holders. The city of Glendale is revising its policy relating to utility account holders, in which an account for rental property will be allowed to be established in the property owner's name only. This new policy is a result of recent legislative action, HB2450, which went into effect on July 29, 2010. The new city policy goes into effect September 7 and will apply to new utility accounts; existing utility accounts will not be affected, until a change in occupancy occurs.

For inquiries on the new policy call the hotline at 623-930-3228. A representative will provide a follow-up call within 24 hours of the following business day. Information on this policy revision and a link to HB2450 can be found at www.glendaleaz.com/utilities.
